Raising Children According to Their Design

Education For Parents

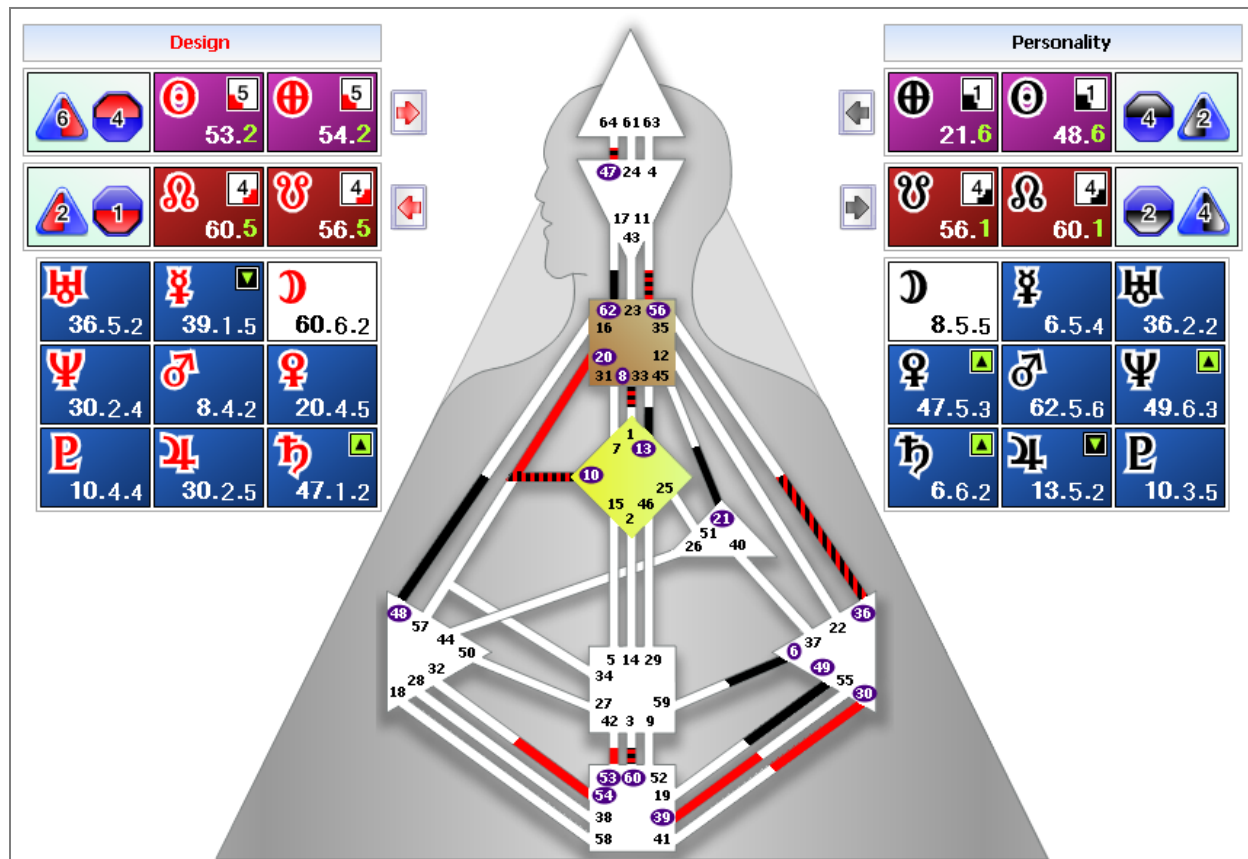

Hello and welcome to all of you. If I could fantasize, it would be nice to have a few million parents listening to this. It is one of the subjects in my life that has always moved me. I have always been involved with younger people in education almost from the time that I left my teenage years. I have a deep and I guess very ancient anger at how much children are abused. And I don't mean about the obvious of this; how they are abused by ignorance, the way they are seen, the way they are grasped, the way they are trained, they are homogenized, the way they are conditioned as beings.

One of the great tragedies is that when you have the privilege of being able to see the mechanics and to be able to see so clearly what extraordinary potential that is in any single human being, and to understand and grasp deeply that from the moment that being is going to come into the world that everything that is supposedly there for that child to nourish it, protect it, guide it, are homogenized beings who are not-self and because of that they are always going to have emptiness and lack of fulfillment and they will have all the negatives of whatever type they happened to be. And they will have relationships that are flawed. They will live according to the customs of their homogenized society and they will raise their children accordingly. They will carry on the habits of the past.

We know deeply that children that have to deal with physical abuse that the chances are that they are going to abuse later in their life those that they love, those that are dependent on them. The responsibility is not in the hands of the children. The responsibility is in the education of the parents. Our whole process depends on that. When I was given the knowledge I was given the way in which awareness can be attained naturally and the fulfillment of life purpose can be attained naturally and health and well-being can be attained naturally by entering into this world and being greeted by those that will treat you correctly and educate you accordingly.

It's not the way I could start. I had to start with all those beings that were there around me who were all not-self, that long process of creating what had to become some kind of self-help thing. Most of my career has been spent in just trying to decondition people, not spent with being able to provide for the deep well-being of children. I have to go through the adults first. I have to get to the parents first. I've lived long enough and Human Design has done well in this life that I've been able to see it. That is, see parents who are aware and who are raising their children correctly. It is something that is really remarkable. But it is a tiny, tiny, tiny fraction of the thousands and thousands and thousands and thousands of creatures that incarnate all the time.

The Chart: A Simple Projector

Here's one. This is a chart for today at the moment that I started the class; a life incarnating. It's really an amazing thing to be able to have the mechanics, to be able to see them, because the moment you have the mechanics you have a way of understanding what is possible for your child and how to care for them, literally how to care for these beings. There are so many things to
